SAMUEL D. CHILCOTE, JR.

Distilled Spirits Council of the United States, Inc.

Mr. Chilcote was elected President of the Distilled Spirits Council of the United States, Inc. (DISCUS) in February, 1978. As President he is closely involved with the Council's many research and public education programs aimed at helping to reduce alcohol-related problems and to encourage sensible alcohol use by those adults who choose to drink.

One of those programs is the Beverage Alcohol Information Council, (BAIC) which was formed in the early spring of 1979 by ten major alcohol beverage industry associations representing the producer, distributor and retail levels. They agreed that an industry group should be formed to carry out a coordinated public education program on drinking and pregnancy and asked Mr. Chilcote to serve as chairman of BAIC. In this capacity, Mr. Chilcote serves as principal spokesman and oversees the planning and development of the public education program on drinking and pregnancy, which was begun in the fall of 1979.

Another program recently launched with Mr. Chilcote's support is BACCHUS, which stands for Boost Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students. The purpose of this program is to help young men and women make their own decisions as to whether or not to drink, and, to teach them the value of moderation should they choose to drink.

He had served as Executive Director, Vice President and Director of the Field Division of the Distilled Spirits Institute (DSI), one of the predecessor associations of DISCUS.

Mr. Chilcote's affiliation with the distilled spirits industry began in 1967 when he joined DSI as a Regional Supervisor. Before his affiliation with the industry, Mr. Chilcote served as Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State of Wyoming. Concurrently he served as State Director of the Wyoming Surplus Property Agency, State Director of the School Lunch and Special Milk Programs, Director of Publications and Public Relations and Director of Personnel, all within the State Department of Education. During this period, he also served on a number of special Governor's Committees concerned with taxation and related matters.
